

Understanding Characters through Their Internal Stories

Writers reveal their characters by _____.

They consider how a _____ internal story _____ the _____.

Writers build interesting character by allowing the reader to _____ and _____ them, but also by letting readers know their characters' _____.

Most good writers switch back and forth between external story (_____ and _____), and the internal story (_____ and _____).

Authors don't always give clues like "_____, " to show that the character is thinking.

About yourself, I want you to come up with five scenarios and tell me your thoughts and feelings for each.

Scenario	Thoughts & Feelings